COUNTIAN GETS BRONZE MEDAL

S. Sgt. David G. Spangler, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester D. Spangler, Gettysburg R. 1, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for meritorious achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy during the period from December 13, 1944, to April 16, 1945 in Germany.

His citation reads: "As a squad leader, S. Sgt. Spangler has discharged his duties in an outstanding and efficient manner. At Kommerseheidt, Germany, on February 7, 1945, he went forward under heavy enemy artillery fire to locate platoon defensive positions in the town. He returned alone to the assembly area and skillfully guided the platoon through the heavy fire to the selected positions."

On April 13, 1945, flanking machine gun fire pinned down his squad. Without losing a man, he outflanked the enemy position and silenced it. His heroic leadership and devotion to duty are in accordance with the highest military traditions.

S. Sgt. Spangler was inducted into the army March 7, 1944. He went overseas with Co. E, 309th Infantry Regiment, last October.

TRUCK DRIVER IS EXONERATED

George Franklin Hoffman, 16-year-old farm hand and truck driver of Emmitsburg, was exonerated late Friday of blame in the crash on Sunshine Trail the night of August 14 which claimed the life of Evers Riley Ambrose, 42 of Hagerstown R. 2.

The Emmitsburg youth was exonerated by a coroner's jury sitting in the Grove funeral home, Waynesboro, Friday afternoon.

The verdict stated: "We believe that the driver of the truck, Hoffman, used necessary caution in his effort to avoid a collision when he saw the Ambrose car approaching and suddenly swerving into his, Hoffman's right of way. We do therefore exonerate Hoffman of all blame."

Ambrose died September 9 in the Waynesboro hospital.

Merle Floyd Kiehlitz, Emmitsburg, owner of the truck, who was with his young employe at the time of the accident, stated that the

WCTU OFFICERS RE-ELECTED AT ANNUAL SESSION

Alcohol was listed second only to war on the list of man's "greatest enemies" by the Rev. Floyd Carroll, Gettysburg Methodist pastor, in an address Sunday afternoon before the 59th annual convention of the Adams County Women's Christian Temperance Union at Mt. Joy Lutheran church.

"The temperance cause is not lost as long as there is a God in heaven and true disciples on earth," he told the WCTU members. He urged them to face modern temperance problems "intelligently" pointing out that liquor traffic now has legal sanction, and social approval.

Declaring that formerly "only the women of the street patronized bars," he observed that it is now "socially correct for all to drink there." He declared the solution of the liquor problem "is greatly complicated by indifference on the part of the people who neither believe in nor use liquor. Christian forces must consolidate. No amount of legislation can be substituted for moral education in church schools and scientific information in public schools," he concluded.

Re-elect Officers

All officers of the county association were re-elected at Sunday's meeting. The list includes: President, Miss Edna Albert, York Springs; vice president, Mrs. Calvin Leer, York Springs; recording secretary, Mrs. Cora E. Berkey, Gettysburg; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles Knox, Gettysburg; and treasurer, Mrs. Blaine Bushey, Ardenstville.

Miss Albert presided at the session which opened with a devotional period led by Mrs. Carroll of Gettysburg. Greetings from the Mt. Joy union were extended by Miss Carrie Croner and were responded to by Miss Flora Witherow, Fairfield. There was a solo by Mrs. Charles Lott, Fairfield, and then Miss Albert delivered her annual address as president. There was a duet by Mrs. Carroll and Mrs. William H. Pensyl accompanied by Mrs. Crawford Witherow.

Miss Albert conducted a memorial service honoring the WCTU members who died during the last year.

These directors were appointed by the president for the coming year: Mrs. Frank Twissden, flower missioner and relief; Mrs. Florence Grindler, prison and welfare; Mrs. A. I. Weidner, Ardenstville, peace and international relations; Mrs. Berkey, Union Signal promoter; Mrs. C. B. Nail, Taneytown, medal contests; Miss Flora Witherow, Christian citizenship; Mrs. Knouse, Ardenstville, exhibits and fairs; Mrs. Calvin Leer, alcohol education, and Mrs. Milton R. Remmel, publicity.

The convention adjourned after selecting Fairfield as the place for the 1946 gathering. All local units of the county organization excepting Ardenstville were represented at Sunday's meeting.

Japs Kill Yankee Fliers; Says Wainwright Beaten

(By The Associated Press)

Five Americans were killed simply because they were fliers and three others were beheaded after they marched through Japanese streets bearing signs "these are the American devils who bombed us," Maj. John A. Singlaub of Sherman Oaks, Calif., related at Hong Kong today in one of a series of fresh atrocity stories.

An Australian army intelligence report issued at Melbourne said that 3,550 British and Australian prisoners taken to Borneo, only six are known to be alive.

Last January, the Melbourne report said 203 prisoners died out of 450 sent on a death march through the Borneo mountains. Another death march claimed 353 lives out of 536 men and the others died later or were killed.

At Darwin, Australia, Pvt. J. W. Larkin, in an interview, gave new details of the abuse of Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, commander at the surrender of Corregidor, and Lt. Gen. Sir Arthur Percival, commander at the fall of Singapore.

Wainwright has declined comment on beatings he and other high ranking Allied officers were said to

WORKERS ARE ASSIGNED TO CHURCH SURVEY

Sixty Gettysburg church workers who this morning began the first religious census here in nearly two decades were commissioned and given a preliminary "briefing" at a special service Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Dwight F. Putman, College Lutheran pastor, who addressed the group and shared the platform with the other pastors of the town, described the religious survey as the first step in the postwar program of the church in this community.

He commended the group for their response to the call for workers to visit every home in the town to make a record of church membership and preferences of the members of each household. "The secret of a strong, thriving, vigorous church is to make it a working church," he declared. He said there is "danger of our faith becoming too abstract and ineffective if it is not exercised in good works."

Cooperative Effort

Doctor Putman declared that "an individual's first responsibility toward helping to build a better world in which there can be lasting peace is toward his own community. World vision begins at home." He stressed the importance of cooperative interdenominational effort and said the canvasser's first duty is to "find the people in this community who ought to have a part in church life." Increasing the membership in any one church is not a goal of this effort, he declared.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Harold V. March, United Brethren pastor, and the Rev. William N. Zabler, members of the sponsoring Ministerium committee. The Rev. Howard S. Fox, Reformed pastor, gave the call to worship and read the Scripture. Prayer was offered by Dr. Ralph R. Gresh of St. James church and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Roy Miller, new Brethren church pastor.

An offering totaling $13.05 was received to help meet the cost of materials for the survey.

Supplies were distributed and the assignment of workers to various sections of the town was made. The survey starts today and is to be completed this week if possible. A two-week limit was placed on the work.

Assignments

The assignments include: West Broadway, both sides, and Mummaburg road, Mrs. Russell Campbell and Mrs. A. H. Barr; West Lincoln avenue, both sides, Norman Strick and George Richtmyer; Stevens and Barlow streets, Mrs. Donald have received.)

"All of them, including Wainwright and Percival, had to go on morning parade with the rest of the prisoners of war and were often struck by the inspecting sergeant major, who always carried a bamboo cane," said Larkin. He was liberated from a Formosa prison.

"The general had to stand at attention whenever a Jap passed, irrespective of his rank. One day, when Maj. Gen. Keys had charge of a working party consisting of generals only, he ordered them to stand at ease when a Jap private happened to be passing.

"The private walked up to Keys and slapped him on both cheeks. When Keys later complained to the Jap commander he received a beating for his trouble."

At Sydney, Sgt. A. M. Blain, a member of Australia's house of representatives, charged "every Japanese guard is a war criminal guilty of appalling atrocities."

The Melbourne radio, in a broadcast recorded by NBC, said a Colonel Suya, "responsible for all the 600 prisoners of war graves in Kuching cemetery," had killed himself with a table knife at army headquarters

MacArthur May Cut Japan Occupation Forces To 200,000

Tokyo, Sept. 17 (AP)—History's greatest military gamble—the American landing in armed Japan—has paid off so handsomely that occupation forces probably will be cut to not more than 200,000 within six months, General MacArthur said today.

As a result of the successful penetration of this conquered nation, he added in a formal statement, troops will be returned home as rapidly as ships are made available. Regular army forces, he said, probably will be able to maintain unaided the 200,000-man force—"which will permit complete demobilization of our citizen (draftee) Pacific forces."

"Greatest Gamble In History"

"There was probably no greater gamble taken in history," his statement explained, "than the initial landings" where ground forces were outnumbered 1,000 to one by armed Japanese. But, he added, "the stakes were worth it."

MacArthur's estimate of 200,000 occupation troops is just half the number which Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, recently said would be necessary—and Eichelberger's figures were at that time considered low. At the start, some 800,000 men—including air forces—were scheduled to participate.

Only Saturday, however, Eichelberger forecast that the entire occupation might be "washed up" within a year if it continued as smoothly as it had started.

MacArthur's statement said that the unknown quantity at the outset of the occupation was whether a military government would have to be established. This would have involved several million troops, he said; but by working with the existing Japanese government, purposes of the surrender terms can be accomplished with only a small fraction of the men, time and money originally projected.

(Shanghai dispatches today said that the swift, quiet expansion of American naval occupation along Shanghai's waterfront was expected by Wednesday. Minesweepers already are at work clearing the Whangpoo river there.)

Nab 27 Criminals

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters reported that roundup of the 46 war-crimes suspects wanted by MacArthur was proceeding with equal smoothness—with the Japanese government making the arrests. Twenty-seven already were in custody; only 17 remained at liberty, and two others were dead by their own hands.

Evidence that the Japanese cabinet might be purging itself of wartime-militarist pacts came today in reports by well-informed Japanese sources that Mamoru Shigemitsu had resigned as foreign minister. No reason was given immediately for the resignation, however.

Shigemitsu became foreign minister under wartime Premier Hideki Tojo in April, 1943, in a cabinet shakeup which preceded a "new policy" toward China. Authoritative sources said Shigemitsu was influential in attempting to conclude peace with China then, "so that Japan would have greater strength for prosecuting the war against America and Britain."

The same sources said that Shigemitsu had been included in Premier Prince Higashi-Kuni's surrender cabinet because his experience was valued in the hasty assembling of the new government. They added, however, that the premier first asked career diplomat Hachiro Arita to serve but he refused.

Lost Right Leg

Shigemitsu was not on MacArthur's "wanted" list, but after the list was announced, Higashi-Kuni frankly asked his cabinet members to "determine whether they would be acceptable to the Americans," these sources related.

Shigemitsu's stormy international career ranged from loss of his right leg to a Korean-thrown bomb at Shanghai in 1932 to signing Japan's surrender aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo bay 15 days ago.

General MacArthur, from his new headquarters facing Japan's imperial palace, announced that the 31st, 37th and 38th American Divisions would go home soon from Manila. The supreme commander also disclosed that he had protested strongly over Russia's mistaken destruction of a B-29 over Korea.

Earlier MacArthur summoned Japanese Premier Higashi-Kuni to his headquarters where he is believed to have informed the prince bluntly that Japan is not an equal and has not yet proved her right to be treated as one—the same strong statement.

ONE OF EVERY 6 CARS GUIDED

A check at the National cemetery Sunday revealed that approximately one of every six automobiles going over the battlefield contained guides it was reported today by Dr. Walter F. Coleman, superintendent of the battlefield.

A count at the cemetery from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. revealed 481 cars went through the grounds without guides. Thirty states were represented, slightly more than half from Pennsylvania and about one-fifth from Maryland.

There were 105 cars and five buses with guides.

While the traffic during the morning hours was very light, the survey revealed that cars entered the cemetery at the rate of approximately 100 per hour during the afternoon.

While Sunday's battlefield travel was not record-breaking, traffic was heavy.

RICHARD MAYS IS JAILED BY LOCAL JURIST

Richard Mays, West King street, Littlestown, who tore up a disorderly conduct warrant and defied the officer who sought to arrest him, was sent to jail in court here this morning by Judge W. C. Sheely for violation of his parole.

Mays, who was on parole for non-payment of costs on an earlier court case was picked up September 8 by a Littlestown officer who found Mays with a wine bottle in one hand and a knife in the other after a warrant had been sworn out for his arrest.

Mays told the court this morning he did not have enough money to pay all of the costs on the old case so Judge Sheely ordered him to jail. "Guess I'll have to be with you quite a while then, Judge," Mays observed. "That's all right, we have room for you," the judge replied.

Retains Support Order

Earl Forry Gettysburg, failed in an attempt this morning to get a reduction of his $100-a-month support order for his wife and three minor children. The order was increased to that figure June 11 when Forry first sought a reduction of an $85 order.

Forry testified this morning that his net monthly pay is $185.40 and that it costs him $24 per week to live. However, questioning by District Attorney J. Francis Yake brought forth the information that a recent federal income tax refund brought his average monthly earnings to $200. On that basis Judge Sheely said he could not see any reason for reducing the wife's allowance when she has three children to keep. Forry was represented by George H. Britton, Harrisburg, colored, held for hit and run driving and driving while his operator's li-

Orrtanna Man Is Robbed In Cafe

When the girl called Mary, his blond barroom acquaintance, got chilly early Thursday morning in the Howdy Pal cafe, York, John Smith, Orrtanna R. D., Adams county, lent her his jacket. He neglected, however, to take his wallet, containing $185 in cash and a check, from the jacket pocket. Wearing the jacket, Mary went to the women's room. When she did not come back, Smith told his story to the police.

The result was that the girl called Mary, now identified as Mary Frances Beckmyer, and also as Mary F. Kolchaba, age 26, who gives an address in West Gas alley, York, and her girl friend, Romaine Louise Leffever, 24, Mack alley, are under arrest on larceny charges preferred by Smith before Alderman J. PREPARATION OF SOIL PAYS IN BULB GROWTH

Even the novice gardener is bound to succeed with fall-planted bulbs if he uses common sense, says Alfred Putz in the New York Herald Tribune. Unlike seeds, bulbs carry a large quantity of reserve food, sufficient to start a vigorous growth and form an extensive root system which, in turn, provides greater means for the absorption of water and additional food.

Just because bulbs are easy to grow does not mean that they should not be provided with the best growing conditions. They must have a well drained soil because the roots and the bulbs of most kinds resent being submerged continuously in water. There are exceptions, such as hyacinths and certain narcissus, which do not mind having their roots stand in water, but the bulbs soon would perish if they, too, were kept in water for any length of time.

Deep Spading Advised

Thorough soil preparation pays well. It is of particular value to those which will remain in the same spot for several years. Because the roots are formed on the base of the bulbs, the soil beneath them is of greater importance than that above them. For best results the area should be spaded deeply so that at least six inches below the base of the bulbs is properly worked into a crumbly condition. It is this lower layer which should receive most of the plant food.

Fresh manure should never be used but well rotted manure, which has turned to a crumbly black mass, will be found satisfactory if it is mixed well with the soil. Dried cow or sheep manure will serve the same purpose. It is used at the rate of one pound for every ten square feet of bed.

Bone meal has long been the preferred fertilizer for bulbs. Its action is rather slow, but since little food is needed before next spring this characteristic fits well into the cultural requirements. Use it at the same rate as dried manure mixing it thoroughly with the soil below the base of the bulbs.

It is advantageous to prepare soil a week or longer in advance so

Prepare Bed For Asparagus In Fall

Experts agree that early spring is the logical time to set out asparagus roots in this section of the country. Fall planting often requires considerable replanting during the following spring, but despite this drawback it has its place where the spring garden schedule is so overcrowded as to leave too little time to do the work in accordance with the best procedures.

Whether planted in spring or fall the bed should be prepared in the autumn when time is ample and soil conditions more favorable to dig the deep trenches needed to establish a high-yielding patch. Well rotted manure and limestone in abundance should be worked two feet deep into the soil to lay the foundation for a productive bed.

that the soil will settle after a good heavy rain or a thorough watering.

Observe closely the different planting depths recommended, which are based on the facts as found in nature. If planted too deep or too shallow many kinds will use a great deal of energy to work themselves into the position where they belong. Planting at an even depth is important in show beds because the bulbs planted deeper will come into flower later than those placed close to the surface.

Read planting instructions carefully, paying special attention to the recommended distance between the bulbs. Many lose their effectiveness if spaced too far apart. All of the smaller bulbs should be placed in groups to form small or large clumps when in flower.

Examine each kind to determine the top from the bottom. Set them upright and press the base into close contact with the soil to favor prompt root development. Tucking the bulbs into V-shaped openings made with the trowel is likely to keep them hanging suspended over an air pocket which presents a serious handicap.

SPRING CROCUS GOOD IN BORDER

Spring-flowering crocus often is used for planting in the lawn, but generally speaking this is less desirable than giving it a place in the border. If it is to have a chance in the lawn, the grass must not be cut until the foliage has turned yellow. That means waiting until the end of May or even June. By that time the grass will have grown so long that the lawn mower hardly will take care of it.

TIPS ON PRUNING WISTARIA

Wistaria vines which failed to flower should be kept pruned of all long, straggling shoots, and roots also may be pruned at this time. Dig a trench starting three feet away from the base of the plant and go down two or three feet, severing all roots reached.

How To Store Winter Squash

There are six simple but important rules to observe in storing winter varieties of squash for home use or later marketing—(1) Allow squashes to ripen fully on their vines; (2) Harvest them with care to avoid breaking the hard, protective rinds; (3) Immerse each in a disinfecting solution of formaldehyde; (4) Store at once in a suitable room that has been cleaned and disinfected; (5) Ventilate freely for two or three weeks to carry off surplus moisture; and (6) Then reduce the temperature gradually and hold at a uniform level to prevent storage decay.

The Hubbards are among the most hardy varieties of squash for winter storage. They should be grown late so they mature after hot weather passes. But likewise the small Acorn and other hard-rind sorts store easily and are worth consideration along with the Hubbards. Of course, tender varieties of summer squashes cannot be stored for more than a few days.

Rot-producing bacteria common to squashes are found in the growing field and are numerous at harvest time. If extreme care is exercised in harvesting the crop and no breaks or abrasions occur in the squash skins, considerable advantage is thereby gained against storage rots. Complete ripening on the vine and careful harvesting are two effective steps against decay so destructive to stored squashes.

Of course rot-causing bacteria should be destroyed before squashes are stored. This is easily and inexpensively accomplished by immersing each squash in a formaldehyde solution just before storage. For this purpose mix 1 quart of formaldehyde in 12½ gallons of water.

The storage room should be equipped with shelves on which squashes are placed without touching each other. If the room has been used the previous year for storage purposes, it should be cleaned carefully a week or two earlier and disinfected by spraying the shelves, walls and floor with a formaldehyde solution similar in strength to that recommended for immersing the squashes. If the room is closed for a few days after the disinfection, fumes will prove more effective. Air- ing is advised before storing time.

Squashes should be damp from their disinfection when stored. But for at least ten days afterward the room should be aired freely to permit the escape of all released moisture. Thereafter the temperature should be reduced gradually until a level of 50 to 55 degrees is reached, at which it is maintained uniformly throughout the storage period.

Winter squashes are a welcome addition to the family food supply in late fall and winter. The small Acorn squash is a tasty substitute for sweet potatoes when baked with honey and butter on the half-shell. All squashes are excellent sources of the important vitamin A.

Gardeners who have surplus squashes to sell and suitable space for storing them will usually find December, January and February prices far more attractive than those prevailing at harvest time.

As a rule squashes do not store well in basements and cellars. A dry room is preferable, especially if it permits free ventilation for a suitable period after storing and control of temperature later.

ATOMIC BOMB

God must have known man's probing mind
The atom's source of power would find,
And when its secret once was known
To rubbish could the world be blown.

Was kept for people God could trust
The power to blow all things to dust

And granted unto them alone
That evil might be overthrown.

Now that its bitter work is done
And back to peace the world is won
God grant that we may never choose
The atom's secret to mis-use.

Today's Talk

GRATITUDE

Gratitude is one of the noblest expressions that we can give. Each morning that we open our eyes to a new day, we should express our gratitude to God for such another opportunity to live and to work.

And what gratitude we should forever offer to those who have given us encouragement and innumerable boosts on our way to higher levels of life and living. To our fathers and mothers we owe more than we can ever repay.

Never should we miss the opportunity to express our gratitude to anyone who may have been kind to us, or who has taken our interest to heart. And such persons are scattered all along our path through life. By expressing this gratitude we create a warm and generous spirit within ourselves. Nothing is so stinging as ingratitude.

People who give of themselves do so because of the pure joy of the thing, but to receive no gratitude in return kills their very soul.

Simon Bolivar died of a broken heart after having freed his country of the tyrannical rule of the Spaniards. The ingratitude of his people did it. But today the story is different. He is revered as a Savior and hailed as the George Washington of Venezuela and of many of the other South American republics.

But the great Liberator is not around to hear those plaudits. The time to express gratitude is here and now—while the ear can listen and the heart can warm to its sound.

Vachel Lindsay was a fine American poet, but ingratitude had much to do with his tragic death. He tried to make entire communities sing out the poetry in their hearts. He tramped throughout the country, trading his rhymes for bread. Many looked upon him as strange and rather queer—but he was a great interpreter of his time and most of his poetry will live. He would have lived longer had he been given more gratitude for his sincere efforts.

Do that kind act today and say that good word today. There may be nothing but silence to greet them tomorrow!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "A Little Chapel in Your Soul."

J.; an Oration on "Common Sense," by John W. Miller, of Pa.; an Oration on "Love of the Marvellous," by Sylvanus Sheimer of N. J.; and the Valedictory by Mathias Miller, of Va. The Baccalaureate Address was made by the Rev. Dr. Krauth.

The graduating class of four is very small this year. The other classes, however are very strong, and the one now entering the senior year, has nineteen. The prospects of the Institution for the coming session are very flattering.

The exercises are enlivened by music, both vocal and instrumental, of the most enchanting kind; and great praise is due to those who devoted so much time and musical talent to add interest to the occasion.

HOUSE BEGINS DISCUSSION OF 'RED APPLE' BILL

Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—A "red apple" army and navy recruitment bill comes up today in the House. Indications are it will touch off a battle over the draft and present discharge systems.

Written by the House Military Committee in an effort to sidetrack proposals to halt inductions and force speedier demobilization, the measure seeks to induce men now in the service to reenlist.

The idea behind it is that if enough men do, draft calls can be stopped sooner and veterans still in uniform can be mustered out more rapidly and in larger numbers.

Plans for Discharges
Two senators, meanwhile, came forward with new plans to get more men out of uniform:

1. Senator Edwin C. Johnson, (D-Colo.), drafted a bill to require the discharge within six months of all enlisted men with two years or more of service.

2. Senator Connally, (D-Tex.), called on the army to classify all its men and release them by steps.

Former prisoners of war would go out automatically under Connally's plan with quick discharges to follow for: All men with combat service, fathers, married men and those in upper age brackets.

Offer Inducements
The House bill holds out these inducements to men to sign up for another hitch:

1. Enlistments for only two years if the recruit wishes. The present army period is three years the navy's four.

2. Optional retirement after 20 years of army service, instead of 30. This would conform with the navy's system.

3. Travel pay of five cents a mile home and back for a furlough between the time of discharge or release and reenlistment.

4. The option of taking muster-out pay before reenlisting, instead of waiting until the end of the new enlistment period.

"A Sort of Red Apple"
5. A reenlistment bonus based on the highest grade held by the man reenlisting. Generally, this bonus is $150 for a master sergeant, a technical sergeant or a staff sergeant, and $75 for a sergeant, a corporal or a private.

6. Continued free mail.

7. Extension, for the period of reenlistment, of the time a veteran may avail himself of benefits of the G. I. Bill of Rights.

One Military Committee member said of the bill:

"It's a sort of a red apple we're holding out to men to stay in the service. If it's attractive enough, maybe enough men will reenlist so we can stop the draft next year and get the veterans home."

Sunday Movies Up In 20 Communities

Harrisburg, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Sunday movie question is slated to come up before voters in a score of Pennsylvania communities, including two third class cities, at the municipal election on Tuesday, November 6.

The election code permits any municipality to ballot on the questions—for or against—once every five years, after petitions are filed with county commissioners.

In Harrisburg, where attempts to legalize motion picture showings on the Sabbath day have failed in the past, the question was ruled off the ballot by Judge Robert E. Woodside, Jr., on grounds that petitions requesting the referendum were invalid. Church groups attacked the sufficiency of the petitions, signed in the movies of Harrisburg theaters.

Of the communities listing referendum on Sunday movies, one—Tamaqua in Schuylkill county—now permits them.

Three innings were played on the 5th, the game being adjourned to Saturday (the 10th), when the remaining innings were played. We annex the score:

Many Women War Workers Seek Aid

Harrisburg, Sept. 17 (AP)—Women war workers are applying for jobless benefits in almost as many number as men although they represent only one-third of the covered wartime working population.

The Bureau of Unemployment compensation said today that of 87,764 new claims filed last month, 3,179 were from women while 58,706 compensable claims in the same period, 27,512 represented those of female workers.

A bureau spokesman said two factors could be responsible: Female workers in the heavier industries are the first to lose their jobs, and it is more difficult to find suitable work for women than for men.

CONGRESS IS GEARING FOR BIG BATTLES

By MAX HALL
Washington, Sept. 17 (AP)—Battle lines tightened today in this history-making postwar Congress.

Senate Republicans met to discuss what they are against and what they are for. House Republicans met Friday. The two groups hope to agree on a program.

Supporters of President Truman defended two main points of his peacetime policy—more help for the jobless of today, and national planning for the jobs of tomorrow.

Many of the committee-room preliminaries on those two issues are out of the way. Full-scale fights will start this week.

The Truman administration kept its thumb firmly on the Pearl Harbor investigation which is about to start. Six Democrats and four Republicans have been appointed to the investigating committee.

Alben Barkley, the administration spokesman in the Senate, is expected to head the group. He will be in a position to steer the course of the inquiry.

Scores Work Task
From an important member of Mr. Truman's own party, Senator Walter George of Georgia, came a declaration Saturday that too much emphasis is being put on the possibility of mass unemployment.

He said not enough emphasis is put on management-labor teamwork to swing the country fast into full peacetime production. He told a reporter the nation's spirit is more important than bills in Congress.

From another Democrat, Rep. Lyle Boren of Oklahoma, came the first determined effort to have Congress declare the war legally ended. The President has appealed to Congress not to do that. It would end presidential war powers and controls which he says are still needed.

Congress was not in session Saturday but Senate Republicans were. They expected to talk about unemployment pay, full employment, and other aspects of Mr. Truman's program.

Fight Compromises
On the big questions of the President's postwar program, some Democrats were making it plain they will fight any compromises.

Senator James Mead of New York said he will support Senator Harley Kilgore of West Virginia in his coming fight on the Senate floor to increase weekly payments to jobless people—in some cases up to $25.

That feature of the unemployment pay bill was slashed out by the Senate Finance committee.

Mead declared that the President's reconversion program "must not fall short of its objectives."

Rep. George Outland of California told the House that 106 representatives sponsoring the so-called "full employment" bill will make no compromise.

Congress is expected to pass the bill in some form. The big struggle is over the wording—whether the government will "guarantee" jobs for all, or merely strive toward that goal.

Tugboat Strike Ties Up Shipping

Philadelphia, Sept. 17 (AP)—At least five vessels—four freighters and a tanker—are riding anchor here, unable to dock because of the four-day work stoppage of more than 400 tugboat crewmen.

The only water front activity in the last 24 hours was the risky but successful departure of nine ships which embarked without tugboat aid.

Scheduled to arrive today is the Moore-McCormack freighter, Ouachita Victory, which will inaugurate peacetime commerce between United States and Baltic ports.

Shipping men doubt if the ship will be able to dock as scheduled or be able to sail from here to New York where it is booked to pick up a general cargo for Göteborg and Stockholm, Sweden, and Copenhagen, Denmark.

Negotiations were suspended yesterday between union representatives and the operators of the seven tugboat companies. Union representatives said the crewmen are protesting a delay in retroactive pay ordered by the war labor board.

Robert G. Kelly, counsel for the tugboat operators, said no strike notice has been given. Forty-five tugboats are idle.

UNIONS FIGHT FOR RULE OVER WESTINGHOUSE

Pittsburgh, Sept. 17 (AP)—A dispute between two unions about the right to be collective bargaining agent for 12,000 Westinghouse Electric corporation clerical workers today overshadowed temporarily the six-state strike of the company's white-collar workers which had, in a week's time, made nearly 47,000 jobless.

The white-collar strike was called by the federation of Westinghouse independent salaried unions and it shut down Westinghouse's big East Pittsburgh plant completely Friday night.

This meant not only no pay checks for the 6,800 clerical workers on strike but none also for 15,200 hourly-paid production workers, most of them members of Local 601, CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

Marshall Daugherty, vice president of Local 601, announced launching of an immediate campaign to enroll the strikers in the CIO union.

Denies Claim
"Hundreds of members of the association of Westinghouse salaried employees, which we still contend is company-dominated, have come to our office and signed UERMWA membership cards in the last few days," declared Daugherty.

Leo F. Bollens, president of the white-collar union, replied:

"I don't believe that hundreds of our members have signed up with that outfit. I defy them to prove it."

On the subject of the six-state strike, Bollens told his members that the two-day conference with War Labor board officials in Washington had made no change in the situation. The WLB still insisted on the strikers returning to work before giving reconsideration to the union's demand for a wage incentive system similar to that under which production workers are paid.

Bollens urged the strikers to "prepare for a long siege and apply for unemployment compensation."

The United States Employment Service office reported that more than 15,000 Westinghouse hourly wage workers have filed applications for unemployment compensation last week.

Women Forest Fire Fighters Praised

Harrisburg, Sept. 17 (AP)—Pennsylvania's women forest fire fighters may turn their jobs back to returning servicemen but their emergency wartime work won't be forgotten by their boss.

"They make darn good fire-fighters," Chief George H. Wirt of the department of forests and waters' protection bureau, told a reporter today.

"They have their limitations but a woman can drive a truck or go for food as well as a man."

A far-reaching female brigade has been filling gaps in the huge part-paid, part-gratis force who stand ready the year around to protect the commonwealth's 15,127,000 acres of timber land.

Between 25 to 30 women have been manning mountain top towers and Wirt commented—"they're more careful and thorough than the men."

Soldier's Son Is Drowned In River

Harrisburg, Sept. 17 (AP)—David Imboden, three-year-old Harrisburg boy, was drowned in the Susquehanna river yesterday when he fell off a wharf at nearby Marysville. His father, Charles Imboden is stationed with the army at New Orleans.

Deputy Coroner Frank Heidel said the boy's body had been in the water about two hours when it was discovered by two men fishing in the stream.

SEARCH FOR BODY

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 17 (AP)—A search was renewed here today for the body of Marion Baron, 25-year old coal miner of McClellan-town, Pa., who drowned in Cheat Lake, a few miles south of Point Marion, Pa., when a fishing boat capsized.

YOUNG MOTHER IS ACQUITTED

Warren, Pa., Sept. 17 (AP)—Blonde Adaline McKinney was reunited with her little son and daughter in nearby Youngsville after a jury deliberating less than an hour Saturday found her innocent in the bathtub slaying of her husband, Wendell, 29.

Mrs. McKinney, 25, slumped in her chair, her face in her hands, as the verdict of the seven men and five women trying her was ready.

Her father lifted her to her feet and embraced her amid applause from a few spectators remaining in the courtroom.

"I am very happy over the outcome and grateful to everybody," the attractive young mother declared.

She left the courtroom to meet her children, Terrance, 5, and Marla, 3, who had been in care of Mr. McKinney's family.

Mrs. McKinney had testified she loved her husband, a sandlot baseball player and machinist who was fatally shot in the bathroom of their home July 16, "despite his cruel treatment of me." She declared he had beaten, choked and reviled her in an effort to force her to leave him so he might marry another woman.

She shot him, she testified, when after two days of arguments he told her "I am going to blow your brains out."

18-POUND BABY GIRL IS BORN

Lawton, Pa., Sept. 17 (AP)—An 18-pound baby girl was born last Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Strohl, it was reported yesterday by Dr. Harvey N. Fry of Montrose. The child is alive and well, he added.

Mrs. Strohl, 38 years old and the mother of 15 children, has had an uneventful recovery after giving birth to the near-record baby, Dr. Fry reported. Her other children were of normal weight at birth.

Records of the American Medical association at Chicago showed a 20-pound girl born July, 1940, to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hunter of near Poplar Bluff, Mo., the heaviest baby reported in recent years.

The AMA journal for Nov., 1936, told of a 25-pound stillborn baby girl reported at Pelham, Ga., in 1916.

NEW COMMANDANT

Washington Sept. 17 (AP)—The navy has announced that Vice Admiral Randall Jacobs, of Danville, Pa., will be the new commandant of the 13th Naval District with headquarters in Seattle, Washington. He will assume the rank of rear admiral when he takes his new assignment.

Records of the American Medical association at Chicago showed a 20-pound girl born July, 1940, to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hunter of near Poplar Bluff, Mo., the heaviest baby reported in recent years.

The AMA journal for Nov., 1936, told of a 25-pound stillborn baby girl reported at Pelham, Ga., in 1916.

The Curious Clue

BY RUFUS HEED

Chapter 11

Seth's first impression of Douglas Gardner was that he combined capacity for swift action with keen intelligence. He wore battered old spectacles, and when he was listening to someone, or puzzled about anything, he would start polishing them with a crumpled-up handkerchief that usually left the glasses more fogged than they were before. He might be forty, but he looked younger.

"Cobol! work all the harder now that his men slipped up on Potter," Gardner said to Seth as they waited for the inquest to start that afternoon. "I know him—have worked with him before. He does some things very well."

"There's certainly room for improvement in what I've seen up to date, in his office. But then you and I have the dossier to worry about—not Cobol!" Seth's voice was somber.

The place was suffocating and Ramon Delgado the only one in the room seemingly untouched by the stifling heat. Without preliminaries he outlined the case to the jury and started calling the witnesses in rapid succession. He evidently took his duties as coroner in a most businesslike fashion.

To Seth's intense relief, the dangerous time element in Suzy's evidence was not emphasized, although it was mentioned. By this time there was no doubt in Seth's mind that Dolores had been killed a few minutes after Suzy had left her. He knew that was too close to be safe unless other facts were definitely pointing in another direction. Evidently Ramon had such facts.

Cobol was called, and said that finger prints of five people were all over both the sitting room and the bedroom. He declared that nothing could be learned from them. Finger marks left by the murderer on the victim's throat gave no clue as they were bruised—not definitely finger prints. All five people in any way involved in the murder were accounted for, he said: General Howard, Seth Peabody, Miss Van Tyne, Mrs. Warner, H. D. Lower and H. L. Rouzer.

Ramon acknowledged this statement with a slight nod of his head and then asked the Chief of Police if he had found any trace of Henry Potter.

"No, I'm sorry to say. He not found," Cobol replied. "But his name was also counted for Saturday night in Luke Hale's office."

"But that was time after ten—not before—wasn't it?" Ramon asked quickly.

Cobol nodded. "That's right. Time from ten until Mr. Peabody telephoned hotel manager that he had found body in Miss Van Tyne's room."

With that time gap before ten o'clock left in the minds of

CUBS TAKE 2; TIGERS, NATS, CARDS DIVIDE

By JOE REICHLER (AP Sports Writer)

It looks like Detroit and Chicago, after a 10-year wait, will meet again in the October World Series.

Time is running out on their rivals. With but two weeks of the current campaign remaining, it appeared today that only a spectacular upset by either of the two runners-up, Washington's Senators or St. Louis' Cardinals, together with a complete collapse on the part of the leaders, could eradicate the leads of the front-running Tigers and Cubs who last met in the 1935 classic.

Including yesterday's double triumph over Brooklyn, 3-2 and 4-2, which incidentally erased the Dodgers last mathematical chance for the National League pennant, the Grizzly Bruins boasted a four-game lead over the world champion Redbirds, with each team having a dozen games left on the calendar.

The Tigers own a two and one-half game edge over the Senators in the American league, with nine games left to play and six for the Nats.

Chapman Hero

The Phillies came from behind to edge out the Cards, 4-3, in the opener when Manager Ben Chapman singled in two runs in the role of pinch hitter. The Cards won the nightcap, 10-3, clubbing five Philly hurriers for 15 hits.

The Tigers chilled Washington's pennant hopes by halving the doubleheader with their chief rivals. With a throng of 29,590 cheering them on, the Capitol City challengers downed Detroit's southpaw ace, Hal Newhouse, in the opener, 3-2, but the Bengals barged back to squeeze out a 5-4 decision in the closer and take a 3-1 edge in the series.

St. Louis' Browns retained their one-game lead over the Yankees in their battle for third place by splitting two games with New York. The Seawallmen won the first 6-2 behind Bob Muncie. The Yanks won the second, 5-4 to give Spud Chandler his first triumph for the McCarthymen since his recent army discharge.

Athletics Split

After Steve Gromek had won his 17th game for Cleveland, shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics 3-0 in the first game, the Mackmen came back to win the second, 7-5, with a five-run fifth inning.

The New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates also split. Jack Barrett's 15th homer won the first for the Pirates, 3-2, but Jack Brewer's four-hitter gave the Giants a 9-2 nightcap win.

Dave Ferriss failed to win his 22nd as the Chicago White Sox hung a double defeat upon the Boston Red Sox, 5-3 and 6-1. Thornton Lee annexed his 15th for the Pale Hose in the opener, while Orval Grove bested Ferriss in the nightcap.

The Braves and Reds divided their pair. Boston rallied for three runs to grab the first, 4-3, while the Reds copped the second, 5-4 in 11 innings after scoring four times to deadlock the game in the ninth.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

Yokosuka Naval Base (AP)—Marines who suffered under his treatment will never forget the "demon doctor" of Umeda.

He was a "physician" assigned by Japanese military officers to care for the ailments of American marines, veterans of Corregidor and Bataan, imprisoned in camp Umeda near Osaka.

"He was some kind of Japanese hoodoo medicine man," said Marine Donald Bennett of (1809 North Francisco St.) Chicago. "If you had a stomach ache, this doctor—if you can call him that—would take a piece of string and wrap it around you two and half times in different directions. He would mark each place the string ended over your stomach and then burn you in those spots with a piece of lighted punk."

High Death Rate

"That was to let the devils out. I guess—or else to scare you into going back to work. After he had burned five or six places on your stomach it hurt so much you forgot all about the ache inside.

"This guy would treat sick Japanese civilians around the camp the same way. Our doctors finally talked him out of burning holes in the men, but he would get us no medicine. The only medicine we ever had was the little bit our doctors brought along when we were taken prisoner."

Bennett estimated that 132 of 400 Americans died in this camp in six months from exposure, starvation, brutal treatment and lack of medical care.

Work Was Cure-All

His friend, Sgt. Philip C. March of Battle Creek, Mich., said that the Japanese medical corpemen who assisted the "demon doctor" were tagged "head hunters" by Marines. "They cured headaches by burning you with their lighted punk sticks," he added. "The treatment was designed to get you back to work as soon as possible.

"Work—that was the almighty thing," Marsh said.

Marsh said there was no medicine of any kind for dysentery and then he described what he said was the normal cure employed by the corpemen to get Marines stricken with pneumonia back on their jobs.

"They'd take blankets off the sick men and throw a bucket of cold water on them. They always got us up early in the winter time—and men suffering from malaria and pneumonia were made to walk to work barefoot. They told us: 'Men

Eastern League

Fred Clemence's mastery of the Utica Blue Sox today had placed the Albany Senators in a favorable position to enter the finals of the Eastern league governor's cup playoffs.

The big righthander held the Blue Sox to two hits yesterday as his teammates converted 10 hits into a 7-0 victory. The win gave Albany a 3-1 edge in the best four-of-seven semi-final series.

At Hartford the Laurels squared their semi-finals with Wilkes-Barre at 2-all by pushing over a run with two out in the ninth to edge the Barons 5-4.

Wilkes-Barre had held a 2-1 advantage in the series following the Barons' 2-0 whitewash of Hartford Saturday night. Albany and Utica were idle Saturday.

Come Back Home Jobs Are Waiting

A LOT of our patriotic neighbors left home to serve their country, either in the armed services or in war industries.

If you are one of them, we want you to know there is a warm welcome and a job waiting for you here.

We hope you will come back to make your home here among your old friends and neighbors. This is a good town with a lot of fine people—and a fine future.

Plenty of Jobs Here

In addition to the opportunities here with which you are familiar, some new ones have developed during the war. For instance, a lot of people around here have been making good money working in pulpwood. The tremendous war-time demand for pulpwood will continue because of the civilian demand that has been piling up and the many new industrial uses that have been discovered. Pulpwood has no re-conversion problem.

And that is typical of most of our business here. It runs along pretty steadily—no big ups and downs. You can enjoy security here and a nice way of living that doesn't cost every penny you make.

So come on back home to stay! We'll be mighty glad and proud to have you with us again.
